1. In view of the amendment and arguments presented by the applicant, filed on September 25, 2006, the rejections under 35 USC 112, second paragraph and 35 USC 103 have been withdrawn.

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 5-11, 51-53, 55-57, 59-60 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 9-11, 55-57 and 60 are drawn to computer program product. Computer program product is a descriptive material NOT claimed as residing on a computer readable medium. Data structures not claimed as embodied in computer-readable media are descriptive material per se and are not statutory because they are not capable of causing functional change in the computer. See, e.g., Warmerdam, 33 F.3d at 1361, 31 USPQ2d at 1760 (claim to a data structure per se held nonstatutory). Such claimed data structures do not define any structural and functional interrelationships between the data structure and other claimed aspects of the invention which permit the data structure's functionality to be realized. See MPEP 2106.IV.B.1(a).

In contrast, a claimed computer-readable medium encoded with data structure defines structural interrelationships between the data structure and the computer software and hardware components which permits the data structure's functionality to be realized, and is thus statutory (MPEP 2106.IV.B.1(a)).

Claims 5-8, 51-53, and 59 are drawn to an apparatus comprising means for processing. However, it is clear from the drawings of the disclosure that there is no separate means to perform the functions described, but the apparatus is really a computer program for processing the data.

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 5-8, 51-53, and 59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The original disclosure fails to teach an apparatus for determining a face direction of a person's face captured in a digital image. It is clear from the applicant's disclosure that the apparatus is really a program to perform the functions described in the claims.

4. Claims 1-4, 47-49, and 58 are allowed.

5. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Yon Couso whose telephone number is (571) 272-7448. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 5:00.
